LOOKING FORWARD:

Work by the Faculty of Columbus College of Art & Design

Saturday, January 21 – Sunday, May 20, 2012

Michael Goodson, Curator

Michael Goodson, newly arrived at CCAD from New York City, has assembled an exhibition pairing diverse work by ten of the school's faculty, for example:

- A deconstruction of William Tecumseh Sherman's War is Hell speech, literally word for word, dispersed throughout contemporary Lancaster for people to find and keep, juxtaposed with an installation reflecting a personal history of a childhood in rural Ohio.

Michael Goodson: "Putting together this exhibition has been an affirmation of the great work being done in my new home town. In the end, the exhibition is a meditation on the harmony that is created when we share a starting and a finishing point and the dissonance that pushes us along the path in between."

Curator's Talk and Gallery Walk

Sunday, January 22, 2:00 p.m. $8 / $5 members

Michael Goodson, curator, will discuss the artists featured in Looking Forward and lead us on a walk through the galleries. Goodson is the Director of Exhibitions at Columbus College of Art and Design. He joined the college in August 2011, having previously served as the exhibitions director at the James Cohan Gallery in New York City.

Artist Talk and Gallery Walk

Sunday, March 11, 2:00 p.m. $8 / $5 members

Please join us for a conversation and a walk through the exhibition with participating artist and CCAD President Dennison W. Griffith. Griffith has served as the college's president since 1998. Prior to that he was on the staff at the Columbus Museum of Art.

Exhibition presented by the Johns Family: In Memory of David L. Johns
